Sam Dowsett leaves on the Mauna Loa tomorrow morning for a visit at Kapapala ranch.

Julian Monsarrat, manager of Kapapala ranch, returned to Hawaii on the Kinau this forenoon.

From and after today all local mails for the Island of Oahu will close at the General Postoffice at 9 a. m. daily, Sunday excepted.

A meeting of the ladies of Central Union church is called for 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in the church parlors. A large attendance is requested.

Tomorrow at 12 o'clock noon James F. Morgan will sell by auction at Brewer's wharf a quantity of flour and bran damaged on voyage of importation on the City of Columbia.

In the notice of Mrs. Woodward an error yesterday occurred. Mrs. Woodward is not now the leader of the Central Union choir, but she formerly held that position for a year. Mr. Yarnley is now director.

HEALANIS VICTORIOUS!

In my greeting of a year ago to my boys and girls, they were compelled to be content with second honors, but on this Regatta Day of September 17, 1898, victory is theirs. In pride they raise their heads to catch the glory shining all around them. On every line of nature is written "Victory for the Healanis." Flags of many nations wave the tidings. On the ocean breeze is wafted success. The fishes of the sea dart to the surface, show their glistening scales on the sunlit waters, and sink again to carry the good news fathoms deep. Army and navy officers, in blue and white, do honor to the colors of the victors. Festoons of evergreen bespeak victory forevermore.

Among the general good cheer dispensed by the Healanis, even the sandwiches cry out for their share of expression. And each stringed instrument—what does it say? As I write, the happy, warm faces of my adopted children smile a welcome while their willing feet trip to the music of waltz and quickstep and, ere I am aware, my pencil takes a little dance all by itself and joins in the symphony. Did ever pencil move to sweeter rhythm? My heart swells with glory till I imagine myself special correspondent from the battlefield of Earth to the Chief of a Higher Department who orders ones movements.

I look across to the Myrtles who are dancing gaily in the midst of defeat. Today they have fought one of the battles of life, in being generous to their opponents, by giving them hearty cheers in the hour of their triumph. The recording angel with her kodak preserves the scenes to futurity. Long live the wearers of the blue and white! May their lives be filled with what those colors indicate—truth and purity. When the evening of Saturday, September seventeenth, closed in, and the last echoes of "Aloha Oe" were safely folded to rest in some niche of the mountains, may they not have offered a special "Now I lay me" for the victorious Healanis?
